National Defence Board Announces Radical Change of Plans

No Official Status Now

Members of Committee Will No Longer Serve Government While Trading With It

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8. The organi ation of war service committees repordinate advisory committees of the Council of National Defence was an nounced to-day by Director Walter S. mittees will have no official connection with the Council of Defence, but wil continue to serve the government a consulting agents after the menner of the existing committees.

This arrangement, it is pointed out, will abolish the technical dual function now exercised by several members of the Council of National Defence organization, which makes it possible for them to represent the government and their own concerns in the same trans "We have realized that there were technical objections to the organization of these subordinate committees for some time," said Director Gifford to-day. "Section 3 of the food bill, which expressly forbids government officials to participate in the negotiation of contracts in which they are inter ested, really put into the statutes a policy which we had been following since the organization of these committees. In no case has one of these committees ever reported or recommended directly to the purachsing of ficers of the government. It has been our policy to have the committee rec-ommendations pass first through the hands of a disinterested committee of the council, which has in many cases rejected the original recommenda-
